Mr. Farlow says the Christian Scientists are full of common sense. The general impression is that they are full of prunes.

If Bulgaria can secure peace with Turkey without paying the price of war, the world will have some hope that the Turk can reform.

Judge Hoyt has had enough to do with Hawaiian affairs to fully understand the prominent part played by men of lively imaginations prompted by malice.

Roosevelt is now at liberty to choose the Nicaragua canal route or drift. Should the President take the latter course he will lose himself in more ways than one.

Hawaii offers thanks to the President for his good sense and while indulging in self-congratulation hopefully contemplates the prospect when Carrer backs the Boston and New York financial lineup.

Why should Attorney General Andrews wish to withhold from publicity the complete details and correspondence in connection with the departure from the Territory of men under indictment for burglarizing the Tantalus home of Chief Justice Freer?

SMALL FARM MIGRATION.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Between 1900 and 1902 persons passed through Chicago today on their way to seek homes in the Far Western states. The movement was the largest of its kind to be recorded in a single day in the history of the Western railroads. The occasion was the first day of the home-seekers' rates to the West and Southwest.

The rate to California and return is $3, and rates to other states considerably less than the fare for the round trip. The same rates will go into effect again November 15th, and it is believed that the home-seekers' movement this fall will greatly surpass all records.

The record movement of today was so much greater than the railroad expected that their carrying capacity was taxed severely. The Rock Island, for example, ran all regular through trains out of Chicago in 1902 and three sections, carrying a total of 1,000 home-seekers. The Santa Fe was also compelled to assemble extra equipment at short notice. The other Western lines moved large numbers. The Rock Island and Santa Fe were especially busy, due to the fact that a large percentage of the movement was to Oklahoma. The Southern lines also enjoyed big business, because the rates to the Southwest gateways affected New Orleans and other Southern cities, the rate to New Orleans, for example, being $16 for the round trip.

This dispatch, published in papers received by the last mail, tells the story of what promoters of an increased "small farming" element do when they mean business. It is the action that speaks louder than volumes of hollow words. It shows that there are thousands of home-seekers ready to try new fields, that the pioneer spirit still exists, that the sturdy farmer will migrate if given transportation rates he can meet and a fair prospect of obtaining land and a home site after arriving at his destination.

If the small farm promoters of Hawaii mean business, if they are talking to any other purpose than to listen to the echoes of their own voice, the ways and means as regards available transportation are at their disposal. If agricultural land in Hawaii can be obtained with as little difficulty as the lands open to these Mainland "home-seekers" under American laws, there is not the slightest question that this Territory can secure the migratory pioneer farmer who has built up the great empire of the West and still seeks more fields to conquer.

There is ample opportunity for those claiming to be the small farm friend to prove their assertion, and a spirit of sincerity in their declaration, a sincerity established by deeds rather than words, will secure all the moral support and enthusiasm desired. Will they make good?

ANDREWS FILES RECORD

"Both Mr. Thompson and Captain Pierce were present and remained silent. The Court, after some demur, granted my request, and the men were released and turned over to Captain Pierce. A copy of the minutes of the court are attached hereto.

"Shortly afterwards I received a call from Major John McCallan, commanding the United States military post at Honolulu, and he asked whether the civil authorities would dismiss the case in order that he might send the men out of the Territory of Hawaii. I informed him that I could not at that time agree to dismiss the case, but would consider the matter and let him know what I could do as soon as possible. I repeated to the Major the understanding I had with the men's counsel and Captain Pierce prior to my moving for their release on their own recognizance, and stated that I would not have done so had I felt that there was the least inclination on the part of the military authorities to take the men from the jurisdiction of the Territory of Hawaii.

"The Major then stated to me that he had no wish, in any way, to conflict with the civil authorities here, and would produce the men when necessary. On the 3rd of April, 1903, I wrote the following letter to Major McCallan:

"Please pardon my delay in writing you, as I promised. I regret to say that at present it will be impossible for the civil authorities to discharge Bales and Walton from their appearance before the court next month."

His Utter Surprise.

"To my utter surprise, and without any further notification to my office, or to anyone connected with the prosecution of the case, the men were placed on board the Sierra about April 7 by the military authorities and transferred to San Francisco.

"When the case was called at the May term by Judge Robinson an explanation was made by Deputy Attorney General Peters as to the reasons for our failure to produce the men. The case was continued over the May term and I am informed that Judge Robinson wrote to the War Department at Washington, calling their attention to the action of the military authorities here, and asking that the men be returned to the jurisdiction of the Territory. This letter was supplemented by one from myself, both to the Secretary of War and to L. E. Corbin, Adjutant General, U. S. A., in which I stated the facts and requested the return of the men.

"On July 1 I received a letter from the Adjutant General, stating that the matter had been referred to the Department of California, and expressing his regret that any friction had arisen by any act of the military in Honolulu. Frear Comes In.

"On August 10, 1903, Chief Justice Frear, to whom General McArthur, commanding the Department of California, had written, presented me a letter from General McArthur, in which the General expressed his regret for the occurrence, offered to return the men if necessary to the Territory, but requested that if the civil authorities could see their way clear it would be an act of courtesy to the War Department not to require the men's appearance.

"After consultation with the Governor and the Circuit Judges, and in view of the request of General McArthur representing the War Department, and the fact that the circumstances in connection with the case have come to light which materially lessen the seriousness of the offense, as well as that Bales and Walton served two months in the Oahu Jail, and that Bales was degraded from his rank of sergeant, I have decided that the interests of justice do not require the further prosecution of the case.

"In the matter of Carlton, while he is comparatively unpunished, he is a minor, and is no longer connected with the Army, and while his bond holds good, I feel that it would be more in the spirit of revenge than in the spirit of justice for my department to either declare his bond forfeited or insist on his returning after the disposition made in the cases of the other two defendants."

Judge Robinson's Letter.
Judge Robinson's letter to Hon. Elihu Root, Secretary of War, written May 25, 1903, also filed this morning, states the history of the case very fully and, referring to an article on the soldiers' case in the San Francisco Chronicle, says "my attention was called for the first time to the possible character of the imposition practiced upon the Attorney General's office. The following day I called Mr. Thompson to the bar of this court and in open court called his attention to the article published and stated to him my recollection of the matter and his representations to me on behalf of Captain Pierce. He thereupon stated that my recollection was entirely correct and that he had made similar representations to Judge DeBolt, who had made the order for the release of the defendants, upon like authority. He stated further that in his opinion, having Captain Pierce in mind as an ideal, that if I desired or expected to find any traces of gentlemanly or soldierly honor among the officers of Camp McKinley, it would be well to employ a telescope with a high-power objective.

"As this Territory is and was an organized Territory of the United States and was not under martial law at all or any of the times stated, this court had and has jurisdiction, to the exclusion of the military authorities, of the crime charged in the indictment.

Not Under Martial Law.

I am satisfied that it is not your purpose to consent to, connive at or allow any officer of the United States Army to defeat or in attempting to defeat the means and ends of justice as administered by the civil authorities, in any State or Territory of the United States, not in a state of insurrection or rebellion, or under martial law, and I therefore most respectfully ask that you investigate the matter and if you find the facts to be as I have stated them and as I understand them, that you issue such orders as may be necessary to cause to be returned to this jurisdiction the persons named to answer before this court for the crime charged."

MILLETT IS MATCHED

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—Alex. Gregg, signed Joe Millett and Gus Ruhlin last night for his October card after canvassing the opinion of local fight enthusiasts pretty thoroughly. Millett is fully twenty pounds lighter than Ruhlin and has a dearth of experience in the professional ring, but he is an ambitious fighter, and his manager, J. C. Cohen from Honolulu, figures that none of the big fellows is too hard for Joe to tackle. He bases his opinion on the showing made by Millett in the Hawaiian islands, where the San Franciscan made his first fight for money and where he disposed of all comers, including Billy Woods, with ridiculous ease. Cohen is prepared to bet that Millett will beat Ruhlin. In fact he has money to place that none of the big chaps, barring Jeffries, is too much for Joe, and even has an idea that Jeffries' head will also fall into the net before many years have passed. Millett was king bee of the local amateurs when the heavy-weight class contained some good ones.

Ruhlin is not kindly remembered here because his bout against Jeffries was such a frost, yet he did what Jeff was unable to do in putting Tom Sharkey away. Billy Madden believes that Ruhlin still has championship timber in him. He has no excuses to offer for the fiasco here before the huge mob that paid to see a fight except that Gus was caught a stinging blow before the affair was well under way and had no chance to show his real form.

Referring to the concert aboard the steamer Sonoma on the way down from San Francisco, W. J. Coelho was the chairman and Robert Lewers was trade custodian of the money received. He will turn over the cash to the Kona Orphanage and the Seamen's Institute. Mrs. Meyers was the accompanist. Special mention should be made of the Misses McClement, Little and Rice for the part they took in the entertainment.

Miss Rice is a daughter of W. H. Rice, of Lihue, Kauai. Miss McClement is a talented young society woman traveling around the world with her mother, and Miss Little is a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music, who gave a recital here last year. She is now on her way to Australia to give a series of recitals.

F. C. Brewster discontinued and bars his plaint for damages for defamation of character against his nephew J. W. W. Brewster. The discontinuance is dated the 19th and was filed this morning.

Chief Trumpeter W. S. Ellis states that there is now an opportunity for several young men to join the bugle corps of the National Guard.

A PASTOR'S WIFE

CURED OF PELVIC CATARRH.

She Suffered for Years and Felt Her Case Was Hopeless—Cured by Peruna.

MRS. ANNA B. ELHARTY, recent Superintendent of the W. C. T. U. headquarters, at Galesburg, Ill., was for ten years one of the leading women there. Her husband, when living, was first President of the Nebraska Wesleyan University, at Lincoln, Neb.

In a letter written from 401 Sixty-seventh street, W., Chicago, Ill., Mrs. Elharty says the following in regard to Peruna:

"Having lived a very active life as wife and working partner of a busy minister, my health failed me a few years ago. I lost my husband about the same time, and gradually I seemed to lose health and spirit. My daughter is a confirmed invalid, and we both felt great need of an invigorator.

"One of my neighbors advised me to try Peruna. A bottle was immediately secured and a great change took place in my daughter's as well as in my own health. Our appetites improved very greatly, the digestion seemed much helped, and restful sleep soon improved us, so that we seemed like new women.

"I would not be without Peruna for ten times its cost."—Mrs. Anna B. Elharty.

What used to be called female diseases by the medical profession is now called pelvic catarrh. It has been found by experience that catarrhal diseases of the pelvic organs are the cause of most cases of female disease.

Dr. Hartman was among the first of America's great physicians to make this discovery. For forty years he has been treating diseases peculiar to women, and long ago he reached the conclusion that a woman entirely free from catarrhal affection of these organs would not be subject to female disease. He therefore began using Peruna for these cases and found it so admirably adapted to their permanent cure that Peruna has now become the most famous remedy for female diseases ever known. Every where the women are using it and praising it. Peruna is not a palliative simply; it cures by removing the cause of female disease.

Dr. Hartman has probably cured more women of female ailments than any other living physician. He makes these cures simply by using and recommending Peruna.

For special directions everyone should read "The Ills of Life," a copy of which surrounds each bottle. Peruna is for sale by all chemists and druggists at one dollar per bottle, or six bottles for five dollars.

Those wishing direct correspondence with Dr. Hartman and can wait the necessary delay in receiving a reply should address Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, U. S. A.

Benson, Smith & Co. will supply the retail drug trade in Honolulu.

SEVEN ACRES OF CARRARA

The roof of the GREAT FIELD MUSEUM, CHICAGO, covering 7 acres of ground, is painted with Carrara Paint.

It seems hardly necessary at this day to advertise CARRARA in Honolulu, where it has so thoroughly advertised itself; but we have not said much about it as a Roof Paint, and it is proper to call attention to its endorsement by the Field Museum for that purpose.
